iconography bathroom

Margres ceramic materials unite with architectural design as a unifying reading of spaces. The versatile and timeless collections used in our spaces are representative of Margres' signature. We talk about products that interpret cement, wood, stone or marble, all of them gathering unique characteristics, in the image and likeness of what the brand has accustomed us to.

Margres ceramic surfaces conciliate aesthetics with the advantages of a porcelain stoneware, close to urban style and contemporary architecture. The plays of lights and neutral colours, usually associated with modern architecture, emphasize the beauty and glamour of ceramic materials.

The bathroom spaces celebrate a philosophy of elegant and sober spaces, inspired by cement, nature, evocative images of the metropolis, or the elegant softness of marble.

The ceramic materials with a cement look are inspired by contemporary architectural environments, with bold and modern lines that take advantage of the solid image of cement, transmitting robustness to environments. They create both an impactful and long-lasting effect through their clear resemblance to cement products, with the advantage of having the durability and wear resistance of a ceramic product.

ce ment

The cement effect does not have to be linear and simple. Natural light helps making the space brighter and small decorative details harmonize the grey tones, making it more lively.

The natural and matte finish of concrete resembles the smoothness of micro-cement surfaces. Ceramic tiles with a cement style assimilate the bold side of the floor and wall tile lines typical of modern urban environments.

The Margres collections also feature decorations and structures that allow to add small decorative touches or highlight a particular area of your space, such as the shower area, the sink area or even the creation of small niches.

Our collections are highlighted by natural tones that vividly evoke the presence of nature. Some of the Margres collections are born from the inspiration by the veins and knots present in wood. They cover the most different types of spaces, rendering them incredibly welcoming. The richness of all our collections recreates powerful environments, full of essence, and as fascinating as nature itself.

The surfaces are crafted to meet any type of use. The rectified natural finish (R10), with a completely matte surface and the soft shiny finish with a very slight gloss and an extremely smooth surface. For a slip-resistant option (R11) you can find a surface with a bush-hammered finish, particularly suitable for outdoor spaces, for floor or façade covering or for indoor walls.

Did you know that the finish of the ceramic piece with marble effect defines the language of your space? For a neutral effect, the ideal is to opt for a Natural finish. But if the purpose is to obtain more brightness and sophistication, you should opt for a Polished finish, the premium marble finish.

Marble-effect ceramics have many universes. The large surfaces are characterized not only by their limpid milky appearance, but also by their veins full of colourful nuances.

There is also room for bolder marbles. The luxurious look of the brown and Corten tones, or the lush green, give the marble a natural appearance and a strong bond to nature.

The metallic look, whether in Corten or Iron, brings together intense visual impulses and metallic chromatic effects, resembling layers of oxide colour. Its use in residential or public spaces presents a modern style, which suits the needs of modern architecture, especially for those who like to bet on the application of aesthetically bolder materials.

metallic

The chromatic effect of metallic oxide covers the spaces with an aesthetic that is unmatched by any other material. The inspiration comes from raw steels and metals as well as from the irreverence of industrial and urban design.
